58146	37202	NCCI	The edited code is a component of the listed code if used to report minor anesthesia or infusion services provided as part of the listed procedure or according to surgical package instructions. Similar listed codes with edit disallowed according to NCCI Misuse of Column 2 code with Column 1 code policy, which indicates that a provider should not report a CPT code out of the context for which it was intended. Note, however, that it may be appropriate to reimburse this procedure if it is performed for indicated purposes separately from the comprehensive procedure.

Comprehensive Code	Component Code	Source	Rationale
58267	58260	BCBST	NCCI HCPCS/CPT procedure code definition / 58260 and 57260 (Combined anteroposterior colporrhaphy;) rebundle to create new code 58267 because experience has shown instances where providers have inappropriately billed 58260 and 57260 when review of medical records show that 58267 should have been reported instead. In 58267, a hysterectomy is performed, and the bladder is suspended by threading several sutures through the tissue surrounding the urethra and into the vaginal wall. The sutures are then tightened so that the tissues are tacked up to the symphysis pubis. Surgeons may perform incidental variations on this approach. Along these lines, surgeons have billed for the hysterectomy with code 58260 and the repair with code 57260, instead of the more appropriate 58267 for both. It would be appropriate to reimburse both 58260 and 57260 if review of the operative report showed that a hysterectomy and a complete combined anteroposterior culporrhaphy was performed on a patient with both a cystocele and a rectocele.

58545	49000	CPT	When any open abdominal procedure is performed, an exploration of the surgical field is routinely performed to identify anatomic structures or any anomalies that may be present. Accordingly, the edited code should not be used to report these exploratory services which are included in the listed procedure.
58545	49255	CPT	This is a separate procedure by definition and when it is performed as a component of a more extensive procedure, it should not be additionally reported. This code should not be used to report incidental omentum resection along with the surgical specimen. Experience has demonstrated that the edited code is often reported inappropriately in circumstances when the procedure was not performed, not medically indicated, or required minimal additional effort.
58545	49320	NCCI	Standards of medical/surgical practice
58545	49321	BCBST	Edited code not allowed when used to report submission of surgical specimens for pathology or incidental biopsy at the time of the definitive procedure. When an endoscopic or open procedure is performed and a biopsy is also performed, followed by excision, destruction or removal of the biopsied lesion, the biopsy is not separately reported. This code may be appropriate to reimburse if performed with unrelated procedures, and if it involved significant additional work to justify reimbursement.
58545	50715	NCCI	Clinically unlikely code combination or component. Review before reimbursing the edited code.

58546	37202	NCCI	The edited code is a component of the listed code if used to report minor anesthesia or infusion services provided as part of the listed procedure or according to surgical package instructions. Similar listed codes with edit disallowed according to NCCI Misuse of Column 2 code with Column 1 code policy, which indicates that a provider should not report a CPT code out of the context for which it was intended. Note, however, that it may be appropriate to reimburse this procedure if it is performed for indicated purposes separately from the comprehensive procedure.

58546	49000	CPT	When any open abdominal procedure is performed, an exploration of the surgical field is routinely performed to identify anatomic structures or any anomalies that may be present. Accordingly, the edited code should not be used to report these exploratory services which are included in the listed procedure.
58546	49255	CPT	This is a separate procedure by definition and when it is performed as a component of a more extensive procedure, it should not be additionally reported. This code should not be used to report incidental omentum resection along with the surgical specimen. Experience has demonstrated that the edited code is often reported inappropriately in circumstances when the procedure was not performed, not medically indicated, or required minimal additional effort.

58546	49321	BCBST	Edited code not allowed when used to report submission of surgical specimens for pathology or incidental biopsy at the time of the definitive procedure. When an endoscopic or open procedure is performed and a biopsy is also performed, followed by excision, destruction or removal of the biopsied lesion, the biopsy is not separately reported. This code may be appropriate to reimburse if performed with unrelated procedures, and if it involved significant additional work to justify reimbursement.

58552	49000	CPT	When any open abdominal procedure is performed, an exploration of the surgical field is routinely performed to identify anatomic structures or any anomalies that may be present. Accordingly, the edited code should not be used to report these exploratory services which are included in the listed procedure.
58552	49255	CPT	This is a separate procedure by definition and when it is performed as a component of a more extensive procedure, it should not be additionally reported. This code should not be used to report incidental omentum resection along with the surgical specimen. Experience has demonstrated that the edited code is often reported inappropriately in circumstances when the procedure was not performed, not medically indicated, or required minimal additional effort.
58552	49320	NCCI	CPT manual and CMS coding manual instructions
58552	49321	BCBST	Edited code not allowed when used to report submission of surgical specimens for pathology or incidental biopsy at the time of the definitive procedure. When an endoscopic or open procedure is performed and a biopsy is also performed, followed by excision, destruction or removal of the biopsied lesion, the biopsy is not separately reported. This code may be appropriate to reimburse if performed with unrelated procedures, and if it involved significant additional work to justify reimbursement.

Comprehensive Code	Component Code	Source	Rationale
58553	49255	CPT	This is a separate procedure by definition and when it is performed as a component of a more extensive procedure, it should not be additionally reported. This code should not be used to report incidental omentum resection along with the surgical specimen. Experience has demonstrated that the edited code is often reported inappropriately in circumstances when the procedure was not performed, not medically indicated, or required minimal additional effort.
58553	49320	NCCI	As per CPT guidelines, a surgical laparoscopy always includes a diagnostic laparoscopy. This diagnostic laparoscopy code is not allowed if used to report exploratory or diagnostic laparoscopic services performed in conjunction with the surgical laparoscopy.
58553	49321	BCBST	Edited code not allowed when used to report submission of surgical specimens for pathology or incidental biopsy at the time of the definitive procedure. When an endoscopic or open procedure is performed and a biopsy is also performed, followed by excision, destruction or removal of the biopsied lesion, the biopsy is not separately reported. This code may be appropriate to reimburse if performed with unrelated procedures, and if it involved significant additional work to justify reimbursement.
58553	49322	BCBST	Edited code not allowed when used to report incidental aspiration at the time of the definitive procedure. When a laparoscopic or open procedure is performed and an incidental aspiration is also performed in the course of the procedure, the aspiration should not be separately reported. 58554	37202	NCCI	The edited code is a component of the listed code if used to report minor anesthesia or infusion services provided as part of the listed procedure or according to surgical package instructions. Similar listed codes with edit disallowed according to NCCI Misuse of Column 2 code with Column 1 code policy, which indicates that a provider should not report a CPT code out of the context for which it was intended. Note, however, that it may be appropriate to reimburse this procedure if it is performed for indicated purposes separately from the comprehensive procedure.

58554	49000	CPT	When any open abdominal procedure is performed, an exploration of the surgical field is routinely performed to identify anatomic structures or any anomalies that may be present. Accordingly, the edited code should not be used to report these exploratory services which are included in the listed procedure.
58554	49255	CPT	This is a separate procedure by definition and when it is performed as a component of a more extensive procedure, it should not be additionally reported. This code should not be used to report incidental omentum resection along with the surgical specimen. Experience has demonstrated that the edited code is often reported inappropriately in circumstances when the procedure was not performed, not medically indicated, or required minimal additional effort.
